Intro

Woohoo! It is February!! What a great month so far. Time Flies, eh??? I hope the new year has been great for you, and that the best is yet to come!

I have a few shows coming up, and hope that I get to see you there.

What's Up In My Art World?

The trip to Los Angeles was EXCELLENT! Californians are so friendly. I certainly wasn't expecting that. Everywhere that Kristy (my sis) and I went, people greeted us and said, "Hello."

Here is a synopsis of our trip:

It was excellent! The bonding time with my sister was super (duper)! We saw as much as we could in 5 days in LA. We saw the ocean several times, went to the Joshua Tree National Forest, drove down Sunset Blvd until it ended, did cartwheels on Rodeo Dr, saw a few celebrities (no sighting of Sharon Stone though), went to the Ellen DeGeneres show on my birthday, and of course, captured many photos (over 900 or so..which in reality isn't much) which was the purpose for going. For more details on the trip, please read my blog.

Since I have been home from Los Angeles, I have been showing with the Artist Market on the weekends. The schedule for the shows is on my calendar as well as on <http://www.localartmarket.com>. If you would like to come by, please do. We are a bunch of local Austin artists trying to get our work out there. I love being with these people!

In addition, I am back at the drawing board and creating more works. I just finished a few commissioned works before going to L.A., 2 pieces from Los Angeles after coming home, and am working on a few New York City pieces. I have applied to several art shows around Texas as well as to a public art project here in Austin for the Brazos Street Art Project. I will let you know the outcome of these applications. You can also check my Exhibition Schedule for my shows and exhibitions.

You are invited to the opening in Galveston at MOD coffeehouse Mar 1, as well as the opening at North Hills Gallery on Mar 9.

Next month, I head to Sacramento and San Francisco for more subject matter, to hang out with old friends, and to visit family!

Artist Plugs

Kyle Gross

My name is Kyle Gross and I am a silversmith here in Austin Texas. I grew up in a small town here in Texas called Bellville and moved to this area in 1989 to attend college in San Marcos at Southwest Texas State University (now Texas State University.) I graduated in 1994 with a Bachelors of Fine Arts Degree with a major in Photography. I had several different jobs in the photography field including photographer's assistant, photographer, optical photo technician, and digital photo technician. Beginning around 1997 I began to design beaded jewelry for my friends and started Stones Throw Studio in 2002. In the interim I have learned much about the art of silver-smithing at Austin Community College, and have been mostly self taught, (with much help from fellow artist Michiel Rushing) for the past few years. I feel that I have only just begun my journey and look forward to meeting new artists and making new friends at the market and continuing my growth as a jewelry artist.
